Submitted: 11/20/2008

Madison - A Northwoods county is listed as one of the "least healthiest places" in all of Wisconsin.

The UW Population Health Institute's 2008 County Health Rankings Report is out. The 6th annual report gives a "health check-up" of all 72 Wisconsin counties and the city of Milwaukee. This year's report shows Forest County along with Menominee, Marquette and Juneau counties along with the city of Milwaukee are the least healthy places to live. So what are the healthiest?

The report shows Ozaukee, Waukesha, Dane, Iowa and Eau Claire counties rank at the top. The rankings were based on over 30 measures of health such as smoking rates, air quality, high school graduation rates and access to health insurance.
